

We do not support the Consumer Banking Associations request to alter the Indiana Telephone Privacy Act. They have legal protection when calling us regarding legitimate specific business concerns. They do not need to invade our home with all kinds of "business opportunities" as had been done previously. We would also encourage the inclusion of inclusion in the ban of all the harassing calls from so-called charities. Legitimate charities are well-known and usually correspond by mail. Get rid of those telephone banks where the majority of the money solicited goes into their own pockets!
